

Scholarships for the German-Arab Master's course*“Joint M.A. Program Comparative & Middle East Politics and Society” (CMEPS)*Eberhard Karls-University Tübingen / American University in Cairo (AUC)*Start: September / October 2013*Announcement for foreign applicants*Goal of the program

This four-semester, interdisciplinary program combines political science contents from the field of comparative politics and transformation research with a specialization on the Middle East region, which includes both language training and the transfer of knowledge of society, culture and history of the Arab world. It particularly focuses on the recent social and political transformations in the region. In addition to the ability to analyse political issues such as regime change, democratization, civil society, and development cooperation, the CMEPS program provides intercultural skills and applied knowledge that will open up excellent job opportunities with public and private employers to future graduates. At both universities, the program follows a jointly developed syllabus and includes joint classes for Arab, German and international students as well as a compulsory semester abroad at the respective partner university. The language of instruction is English. Upon successful completion of the program the degree `Master of Arts` (M.A.) will be awarded.

Target Group

The target group of this Master's program are Bachelor graduates in the fields of Political Science, Social Sciences, Middle East Studies or Arabic and Islamic studies. Applications are open to participants from the following countries: Algeria, Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Palestinian Territories, Syria, Tunisia, and Yemen.

Selection

A selection committee consisting of professors of the course and representatives of the DAAD will nominate the candidates for a scholarship.

Aside from the study achievements and the academic quality of the applicant, the most important selection criterion will be a convincing personal presentation of his/her professional and personal motivation for participating in this program. The candidate has to introduce himself/herself personally to a committee consisting of professors and DAAD representatives.

After awarding the scholarship a regular achievement control takes place throughout the course of studies. Without fulfilment of the required performance, the DAAD reserves itself the right to terminate the scholarship prematurely.
